

For thirty years, Peter has worked in the financial sector. Initially he spent seven years in banking, first as a credit analyst with the National Bank of Washington/WMF Group, a publicly traded, commercial bank and mortgage service company. Following this he worked as a commercial lender with First Union National Bank in Tysons Corner, Virginia. In this capacity he analyzed, developed, and delivered financing solutions to corporate borrowers. Peter then moved to Allianz Trade North America, the largest mono-line credit insurer in the world, eventually becoming a Vice President in the Philadelphia market. In 2004, with Kirk Elken, he founded Securitas Global Risk Solutions. This specialty insurance brokerage structures solutions oriented around credit and political. He holds a surplus lines authority distinction that allows him access to foreign and alien insurers providing insurance coverage for non-standard or unique risks.

Peter graduated from Tulane University's A.B. Freeman School of Business earning a BS in Management with a concentration in finance and double major in economics. He received the Omicron Delta Epsilon honor in the areas of economics.
